Important information:

Continuing insurance coverage in Switzerland during the temporary performance of a professional activity in a State with whom Switzerland has not concluded a social security agreement does not automatically exempt the person concerned from other insurance obligations abroad. Social insurance contributions may also be levied by the State in which the insured performs all or part of his professional activities. Consequently, the insured may be subject to multiple insurance obligations.

The individuals concerned and their employer remain subject to statutory contributions to the Swiss OASI/IV/LEC/UI schemes, family allowance schemes and the accident insurance scheme. Contributions will be levied on all gross salaries paid to the employee, as well as on any compensation paid by the employer abroad, and on all monetary benefits constituting the salary subject to statutory insurance contributions in Switzerland. As a general rule, they also remain subject to the mandatory part of the occupational benefit scheme (LPP/BVG).

The individuals concerned also remain subject to statutory contributions to the mandatory Swiss health insurance scheme and the mandatory Swiss accident insurance scheme for a minimum of 2 years (extendable to a maximum of 6 years) and, in certain instances, for the entire duration of the temporary performance of their professional activity abroad.

Family allowance benefits may be reduced depending on the place where the children concerned reside; the amount of these benefits varies according to the purchasing power of the country of residence. In certain cases, these benefits will not be granted.
